POSTAL REGULATORY COMMISSION

To: Postal Regulatory Commission Members

I wish to lodge my displeasure with the actions of the United States Postmaster General, Louis DeJoy. He was appointed to that position with marching orders to slow down mail service in order to impact mail in ballots. He has done a superb job of accomplishing massive slow downs. He has also treated property belonging to U.S. taxpayers with disrespect.

I am a retired insurance professional. I hold a CPCU designation. I have been a licensed agent and broker. Over my nearly 50 year career in the insurance industry, I have worked with numerous commercial clients from property owners to bio-tech, to hospitality, to manufacturing. One of the valued services we offered was advice on risk management techniques to eliminate or reduce their risk to loss.

When DeJoy made the decision to take sorting machines off line and relegate them to the dumpster, he missed the opportunity to provide that equipment to other locations or to be able to supply parts for repair work on sorting machines left in working order. He trashed equipment that was not his to trash.

When this man has testified before Congress, his arrogant and "I know it all attitude" is very apparent. It is time to kick this man to the curb.

Sincerely,
